

4 new happy hours around Seattle and the Eastside, including a family-friendly waterfront venue

Hearth, the new bar restaurant in downtown Kirkland's Heathman Hotel, now runs happy hour early in the evening and again at night. (Courtesy of Heathman Hotel)

Hearth

One of the big openings in Kirkland this year, this bar restaurant inside the Heathman Hotel downtown started early and late happy hours for revelers around the park waterfront. It offers mini Kobe beef burgers and other bites ($4-$5). Offering better value, especially for a group, are gourmet flatbreads topped with duck confit or wild mushrooms ($10-$13). The daily cocktail special costs $5, and at night, the hard stuff (mescal and whiskey), also gets slashed to five bucks.

Happy hour 3-6 p.m. and 9 p.m. to closing. (Bar closes around midnight Tuesdays-Saturdays and around 10 p.m. on Sundays and Mondays.) 220 Kirkland Ave., Kirkland; 425-284-5900, hearthkirkland.com